The Charm of a Low Voice Everyone knows how disagreeable high-pitched, shricking voices are and how charming low, sweet ones, and, considering this, one wonders that more attention is not given to the subject from an educational point of Americans abve often been accused of having disagreeable voices, and it can not but be admited that some times the accusation seems true. The Yankee twang and the nasal drawl peculiar to many of our communities are certainly not the loveliest intonations. On the other hand, there are as beautiful voices to be found right here in America as in the Latin countries, where a soft accent is the rule, not the exception. But the trouble is there are not enough of these beautiful voices. There could be easily enough if only the American woman would take the time and the trouble to cultivate a pleasing quality in her speaking tones.

The other day three women were discussing a recent debutante, who, despite lack of great good looks, was carrying all before her in the world of society.

"What I like is her voice," said a man of the party; "it reminds me of a purring cat.'

His simile was correct. Her voice was very low pitched and came from the back of her throat in a soft, husky sound, and its fascination was undeni-

Take Sarah Bernhardt, for Instance. The divine Sarah earned her title of the greatest living actress as much from the pure, silvery quality of her voice as from her histrionic powers. This star of the theatrical firmament possesses a speaking voice to dream about, full, sweet, liquid, and one feels me could never tire of listening to her golden words

How great is the power of the human voice to displease as well as to please was discovered the other day by a girl who was suffering from a bad cold. "I have just made the unpleasant discovery," she confided to a friend, "that at the present moment I am not wanted by any of the members of my family, and do you know why? Because I have a wretched cold that anyone to overhear conversation. In- the famous Chestnut Ridge Farm, W. has turned my voice into a hoarse L. Beardsley & Son, Ellsworth Sta- croak. It is not a sniffy cold, and they tion, O. Berlin Phone 11 on 24. 50-h are not in the least afraid of catching it. It is simply my tones which annoy broken, weight 1200; also colt com-ing two years old. Wm. Stitle, Diatheir nerves, and quite impolitely to 'quit your croaking,' and by a mere male. All who have studied elocution or gone in for a profession where the voice plays an important part learn rectly, and it would be an immense advantage if elocution lessons were made an important part of the education of every young girl. La Rochefoucauld says: "There is more eloquence in the tones of the voice than in the choice of words." And, indeed, he proclaims an absolute truth

A charming story of a speaking voice was told the other day-a voice that could not be bought for gold. It belonged to a hard-working little servant girl, a chambermaid in a great house, whose voice was so marvelously sweet as to provoke comment by all who heard her speak Her mistress particularly admired the quality, and one day sent for the girl to come and speak to the teacher who was giving the daughters of the house lessons in elocution.

"There," she said, "I want you to teach my daughter to speak like that. "Alas, madam," the teacher re sponded sadly, "that is impossible, No man can teach that. Those are neither chest nor throat notes; they come from the heart." Voices that are naturally harsh, me tallic or nasal can be greatly improved by private study. Speaking exercises at the piano are a wonderful

Not only is it difficult to speak properly, but it is even more difficult to whisper correctly. A whisper is often merely a husky croak or quite inaudible. The secret of a clear whisper is to drop the voice as low as possible and to speak with the lips, the lip movement helping to convey nearly as much as the actual sound.

Bryan Replies to Bernstorff's Criticism of United States' Impartiality.

Washington, April 22. - Secretary Bryan Wednesday sent to the German embassy the reply of the United States government to the much discussed memorandum of Count Von Bernstorff, in which Count Von Bernstorff harshly criticized the character and impartiality of American neutrality. U. S. Has Not Yielded Rights. The German ambassador is in formed that the issues between the United States and Great Britain growing out of British interference with American trade "are hardly appropriate for discussion between the government of the United States and the government of Germany.

Count Von Bernstorff is further told that the language of his memorandum "is susceptible of being construed as impugning the good faith of the United States in the performance of its duty as a neutral."

He is told that the United States has not any time yielded any of its rights as a neutral.

The ambassador's contention that the failure of the United States to inhibit the exportation of arms was unfair to Germany is met with the declaration that an "embargo in the trade of arms at the present time would be a direct violation of the neutrality of the United States."

The German ambassador's attention is not called to the fact that on Dec. 15 last he presented to the state department a memordanum of the German government in which the imperial government stated that "under the general principles of international law no exception can be taken to neutral states letting war materials go to German's enemies from or through neutral territory."

Holds Criticism Unfounded. Nevertheless, it is plainly the purpose of Secretary Bryan's note to make clear in the most polite language that the neutrality policy of the United States has been consistent and conscientious and that the criticisms of Germany's ambassador were unfounded in fact and most objectionable in form.

The view taken of the United States' reply in diplomatic circles is that it is a kindly worded but very decided rebuke to the ambassador.

Count Von Bernstorff is expected to take the rebuke in the spirit it is given and not repeat his offense of questioning the good faith of the United States. If he does repeat it the expectation in diplomatic and official circles is that he will be given | his passports.

Therefore, his decision as to his future attitude will be awaited with great interest. If the good faith States should again be questioned, and with unquestionable sanction of crisis in the relations between the the German imperial government, a Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Kennedy and two governments hardly could be avoided.

ANTI-SALOON LEADERS HEAR RE-SULTS OF LOCAL OPTION ELECTIONS IN ILLINOIS. Chicago, April 22.-Results of local option elections in 26 towns and villages in Illinois were claimed as a victory by anti-saloon leaders. Eleven towns went into the dry colmn, abolishing about 80 saloons, and all previously dry territory was retained. Figures provided by the Anti-Saloor league showed that there are now 55 entirely dry counties in the state, 46 partially dry and one, Monroe county, entirely wet. Seventy county seats are dry, while 32 remain wet.

Will Mark Historic Trail. Findlay, O., April 22.-Markers will be placed along the length of the historic trial made by Gen. Hull in his disastrous campaign through Hancock county against the Indians in 1812 on his way to Detroit. The work will be done by Findlay chapter. D. A. R. A committee is at work to secure the location of the famous trail, if possi ble, through histories and government records.

Twelve Die as Wall Falls. Birmingham, Ala., April 22.-More than 12 persons are believed to have been killed and 20 were hurt here when a five-story wall of the old Steele-Smith building on 2d-av crashed down on the Hann shoe store and the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.'s store.

Mrs. Story Again Heads D. A. R. Washington, April 22.—By a landslide vote showing a big majority the entire ticket of Mrs. William Cumming Story, president general, was carried in the D. A. R. congress. Mrs. Story was elected by a majority of 245 votes and most of her candidates kept pace with her in their majorities | 12

"I have used your Liniment and can say it is fine. I have used it for sore throat, strained shoulder, and it acted like a charm."-Allen Dunn, Route 1, Box 88, Pine Valley, Miss.

"I am a painter and paperhanger by trade, consequently up and down ladders. About two years ago my left knee became lame and sore. It pained me at nights at times till I could not rest, and I was contemplating giving up my trade on account of it when I chanced to think of Sloan's Liniment.
